2. Say who taught you do X.
3. Say what their personality was like as a teacher.

Did you ever learn to ride a bike as a child?

Yes, I did! Hmmmm.... Let me think. It was during the spring festival. My parents bought me a really wonderful new bike. I was taught to ride by my uncle, who was incredibly encouraging but quite strict because he was determined to teach me to ride before the end of the holiday.

Did you learn to swim when you were in school?

I did not learn to swim at school because my school did not have any swimming classes, but I learned to swim for a few months one summer when my parents took me to classes at the local swimming pool. I went every other day with a small group of friends. We were taught by a really friendly and supportive man, who was a semi-professional swimmer.
