What is the best time of day to study?

I think the best time of day to study is in the very early morning, just after dawn. This is the quietest time of the day, when there is no-one else around and everywhere is completely silent. This means I am able to really get into what I'm studying and not be distracted by friends or family. It's definitely the most productive time of day for me, I just find it difficult to get up so early!
